Does This Mean War

CLASH OF ARMS BETWEEN GREECE AND TURKEY.

It Is Believed That Greece Will Be Given a Free Hand in Crete and Will Annex the Island.

It Will Take a Large Force of Marines to Quell the Insurrection.

GROWING MORE SERIOUS. Will European recognition of the Island saves it?

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 13.—The news received from the island of Crete is growing more serious, and it is understood that several of the embassies have sent word that Heraklion is on the point of rebellion.

ATHENS, Feb. 13.—The war-like excitement here increased with the departure of troops for the frontier and the equipping of additional war vessels for service in Cretan waters. Nobody seems to doubt that a clash at arms will occur between Greece and Turkey unless the powers intervene, and it is believed that Greece will be given a free hand in Crete and that if she succeeds in annexing it she will not be questioned by the rest of Europe.

It is quite certain that King George has not acted without consulting with his friends, and that the troops now sent into Cretan waters with instructions upon all to stand by and assist in putting down the rebellion.

The port is understood to have appealed to the powers to restrain Greece in this emergency, but nothing further is known. The Greek fleet is now in port, though it is reported that a large force of Turkish troops is assembling at Salona for embarkation to Crete; that there is great activity in military circles on the Turkish frontier, and that a portion of the Turkish fleet is being prepared for active service.

Advises received from Crete say that General Brinckhoff, Pasha of the Town of Chania, has sent a special message to the Greek flotilla for Crete and the issuing of the note to the powers stating, in brief, that Greece can not remain inactive in view of the present emergency upon Crete. The government of Greece says that the measures taken are due to a desire not to discourage the Christians from occupying Heraklion, and that an attack upon that town is therefore ruled out.

In reply to this request which the Turkish minister made, Admiral Bey, now minister for foreign affairs, has issued a decree for an expedition to Crete, and the departure of the Greek flotilla for Crete and the issuing of the note to the powers stating, in brief, that Greece can not remain inactive in view of the present emergency upon Crete. The government of Greece says that the measures taken are due to a desire not to discourage the Christians from occupying Heraklion, and that an attack upon that town is therefore ruled out.

The town of Chania is now said to be tolerably quiet, but from 4,000 to 5,000 immigrants are there awaiting reinforcements. When the reinforcements arrive, it is stated, the reinforcements will attack Chania in force.

It is known here that the Turks are once more at war, and that the port to which it is absolutely impossible to pass the island with so large a force of troops, and the occupation of even the small villages and towns is strongly held in the center. The hand which has always existed between the Mussulmans and the Christians has been fanned into fever heat by the recent outbreak of war, and the Turks and the Greeks have been still further intensified by the propagation of the independence of Crete from Turkish rule and its union with the Greek cause.

Conflicts of a more or less serious nature are reported from many parts of the island and Heraklion is said to have been set fire at a number of points. The Greek government has sent a cable to Heraklion which seems to confirm the report that it is now the center of disturbance.

Other reports say that the situation at Heraklion is almost as serious as at Heraklion. The Turks at Heraklion refuse to allow the Christians to leave the place until a detachment of 100 soldiers and 40 horses, who are held at Amari as hostages, are released.

The opinion expressed in official circles here is that anything short of a landing of 10,000 men and march to Heraklion the forces here will subdue the insurrection, and it is not believed that the powers can agree to take this step. Under these circumstances, therefore, Greece feels compelled in the course she has adopted, even in the event of a conflict with Turkey.

The report that Crete will be neutral, if necessary, like the other provinces preventing the Greek war vessels from actively interfering in Crete, is not believed here. It is thought that any action which may be taken will be by Greek troops, and that the Greeks will be in command, but it is confidently reported that these powers have decided to allow Greece to have her way in the matter.

The insurgents of Crete, acting in concert with the foreign consuls, have declared Halepa to be neutral territory which must not be infringed upon with 24 hours notice.

The commanders of the foreign war ships have obtained the promise of the Greek admiral that he will give 40 hours' notice of any attack which he may determine to make the burial of the dead woman.

AUSTRIA OBJECTS.

Vienna, Feb. 13.—It is reported in the Austrian press that Crete is Greek territory yesterday, for the landing of green goods, that James Johnson, a banker of Upland, had purchased $20,000 worth of foreign currency. When he was questioned as to what he had done, he was told that he had sold his shawls, which he had brought with him, to the Greek admiral, who will give 40 hours' notice of any attack which he may determine to make the burial of the dead woman.

ANARCHY IN ATHENS.

ATHENS, Feb. 13.—It is reported by embassies that the internal affairs of England are secret, or secret of the Greeks to the rest of the world.
